YOUNG local musicians will perform a mix of musical genres Live At The Station this month, showcasing their skills in Rock, Funk, Hip Hop, Reggae, pop and more.

This is a family friendly event held at The Station from 5.30pm – 9pm on Friday 25 March.

Council's Youth Officer, Aiden Fargher said that Live At the Station would capture a range of genres being performed by a number of young local artists, making it the perfect day out for everyone to enjoy free of charge.

"The Station is a hub for the Murray Bridge youth aged 12 to 15 to gather for activities, programs and events focusing on developing skills, and community involvement, he said.

"A number of regular events are held at The Station throughout the year to showcase the talented young musicians from our region."

Harnessing the talents of some of the finest youth musicians in the region, The Station includes two state of the art recording studios for the youth to rehearse and record their music.

Admittance is free and alcohol is not permitted at the event site.
