THE ANNUAL Sixth Street MAKERS MARKET will be abuzz again in the heart of the Murray Bridge arts precinct, from 10am until 3pm Sunday 6 November 2022.

This popular, family-friendly event will showcase over 30 stalls brimming with a wide range of local and South Australian handmade and bespoke treats.

Murray Bridge Regional Gallery Director Fulvia Mantelli said that the event supports local and South Australian artisans and creative small businesses.

“Market goers can enjoy the experience of meeting and buying directly from South Australian makers offering jewellery, paintings, sculptures, ceramics, henna tattoos, flavoured honey, beeswax skincare, bath products, plants, books, homewares, ottomans, garments, gift cards, candles and more!” she said.

“If you're after an entertaining day out, a unique shopping spree, or a one-stop-spot for Festive Season gifts, we've got you covered.”

Live music will be in full swing throughout the day with a line-up of great local talent, including Murray Bridge Children's Choir, Katie Aspel, Connor Ferguson + Jordan Bender, and Barney Rebel.

Everyone is welcome to join the free drumming workshop facilitated by Mary Trees, and pop up experimental art experiences by participants of the ART + PLACE workshop series. Kids will love free face painting, giant games and craft activities.

A great spread of food vans will satisfy appetites, including Sozas Sri Lankan Street Food, Evi's Grecian Delights, Naturas Ice Cream, Decaf Coffee and Lions Club BBQ.
